Each setting is like a painting only try to guess the artistBy Gai LandryThe 'blindspot' in decorating that often comes with conformity is pleasantly missing in this exceptional guide to the most intriguing houses in the world. Each setting is like a painting only try to guess the artist! I am so inspired by people's visions and refer to this book often not as a coffee table book but as a textbook. Thank you Annie Kelly! You got it going on!2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A follow-up to the successful series Rooms to Inspire, this inspirational design guide presents a selection of novel urban interiors by the leading interior designers of our time. City living evokes cosmopolitan sophistication and artistic expression. This presentation of trend-setting ways to design residences by leading tastemakers such as Muriel Brandolini, Peter Dunham, Jonathan Adler, and Mary McDonald, shows an impressive mix of styles from eclectic and exotic to neo-traditional. The variety of beautifully photographed dwellings from townhouses and apartments to lofts in such vibrant locales as New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Paris, London, and Jakarta were chosen for their fresh design perspectives. This inspiring medley ranges from Carolina Irvings Upper East Side chic New York apartment with custom molding influenced by Gothic architecture to Robert Couturiers elegant residence with curved walls, decorated by Paulin Paris. Universal design issues fundamental to living quarters are addressed, including color and comfort, as well as innovative approaches to tight spaces such as kitchens and bathrooms. Sections devoted to bookshelves, home entertaining, and tabletop display, along with a useful resource list, complete this guide to city style. For professionals and novices alike, Rooms to Inspire in the City encourages us to decorate our urban living spaces with panache.
