Here's How to Use General Finishes Milk Paint to Get a Professional, Durable Finish for Your Kitchen and Bathroom Cabinets You've seen what a difference new-looking cabinets can make in a kitchen. You've devoured DIY Pinterest boards, watched dozens of how-to tutorials, and read blogs from other DIYers on how to paint your cabinets yourself. Yet you haven't gotten started because you are worried that if you make a mistake, it will look worse than when you started or start to peel after a short while. There is also conflicting information about what types of paint you should use. Do you need to prep your cabinets before painting, or can you skip that step, as some people suggest? Should you glaze? What about topcoat? That's where Rachel Elise Trimble's new book, The Confident DIY Painter, comes in. The book helps people, just like you learn how to use General Finishes paint to get a professional, durable finish for your kitchen and bathroom cabinets. Stop the overwhelming analysis paralysis of spending so much time on research and take the guesswork out of painting your cabinets by using General Finishes milk paints from a cabinet pro that paints everyday.

About the Author About Rachel Elise Trimble With an extensive background working with the construction industry, Rachel has the expertise and the know-how to get things done. When combined with her can't-shut-it-off creativity, she's able to accept any challenge and complete any task creatively, efficiently and professionally. But, she'd just describe herself as a quirky, artistic chic. In her pre-Restyle Junkie days, Rachel got the chance to see some incredible man-made undertakings up-close. She's been on back-lot tours of nuclear power plants, and walked through oil refineries, a Pepsi bottle facility and countless massive construction sites. It is simply amazing what people can create together, and that's part of what fuels her passion for her own transformative work. Rachel and her husband Beau have a family with teenagers and two dogs, keeping things as interesting at home as they are at work. Originally from Chicago and a New Trier graduate, Rachel is a die-hard Cubs fan. She is exceedingly proud to be a mother, step-mother, licensed contractor and author. Oh, and she's also completed two marathons.
